

Editorial

Launch of American Journal of Clinical and Experimental Obstetrics and Gynecology

Setsuko K Chambers<sup>1</sup>, Wenxin Zheng<sup>1</sup>, Eli Y Adashi<sup>2</sup>, Kenneth D Hatch<sup>1</sup>, Beihua Kong<sup>3</sup>, Steven Plaxe<sup>4</sup>, Robert M Silver<sup>5</sup>

<sup>1</sup>University of Arizona College of Medicine, Tucson, AZ, USA; <sup>2</sup>The Warren Alpert School of Medicine, Brown University, Providence, RI, USA; <sup>3</sup>Qilu Hospital of Shandong University, Jinan, Shandong, PR China; <sup>4</sup>University of California at San Diego, San Diego, CA, USA; <sup>5</sup>University of Utah College of Medicine, Salt Lake City, UT, USA

Received December 5, 2013; Accepted December 7, 2013; Epub December 7, 2013; Published December 15, 2013

We are pleased to announce that the American Journal of Clinical and Experimental Obstetrics and Gynecology (www.ajceog.us) has been launched. As a new open-access, peer-reviewed online journal, the American Journal of Clinical and Experimental Obstetrics and Gynecology is dedicated to publication of original work and review articles of top quality in the field of Obstetrics and Gynecology and to providing a free forum for rapid dissemination of novel discoveries/and perspectives. The online-only format will greatly shorten the time needed from the acceptance of a manuscript to publication, while open access will allow each reader from the global medical science community to utilize all material published in this journal freely without obstacle. While providing all these benefits, manuscripts published in this journal are still subject to formal peer-review and are expected to meet the most rigorous standards of academic excellence.

The journal is designed to be broad in scope covering all aspects of obstetrics and gynecology such as basic, translational, clinical, and population-based research. In addition, we encourage thought-provoking topics presented as 'Perspectives' and 'Editorials' as well as having an emphasis on comprehensive timely reviews and short communications focusing on evolving topics on the etiology and pathogenesis of diseases concerning all issues related to the women's health.

It is very fortunate for us to have developed an international editorial board of recognized experts in the field to help with this process. We are still looking for and welcoming qualified researchers and physicians to join the current elite Editorial Board (www.ajceog.us/editorial-board.html).

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of our editorial board members, supportive authors and colleagues for their contributions that have made the launch of this new journal possible. With your unending support and participation, we are very confident that the American Journal of Clinical and Experimental Obstetrics and Gynecology, serving as a platform for sharing major progresses, will yield important contributions to the biomedical community soon.