In this article, part of the experiment was conducted and the results were provided by a third-party biological laboratory due to the lack of necessary instruments and reagents. However, we later found that the wrong results were provided to us by the third-party laboratory after completing the experiment, and we have included part of those mistaken data in the article.

Although the original data were later provided, we recognize that the results and conclusions obtained based on these data may be unreliable. After careful discussion, all participating authors have agreed that, based on the need of scientific accuracy and honesty, it is necessary to withdraw the article. We are deeply sorry for the inconvenience this may have caused, and we hope your journal editorial office would accept our sincere apologies and application to withdraw the article.
