In this paper, we report an active targeting liposomal formulation directed by a novel peptide (RGD) that specifically binds to the integrin receptors overexpressed in prostatic cancer cells. However, this manuscript was directly submitted without enough communication among all the contributing authors, some contributors do not know about this paper. After careful consideration and discussion within our group, all the contributing authors agreed to retract the above mentioned paper. The authors deeply apologize for all inconvenience caused by the withdrawal of this article to the journal and the scientific community.
